

Application of mathematical modelling at processing results of x-ray diffraction researches

Korchevskii V.V (kvv@ele.khstu.ru)

Khabarovsk State University of Technology

Use of numerical modelling is shown at processing of x-ray diffraction researches. The numerical method of definition of parameters of thin crystal structure is offered. Results numerical and experimental researches are reduced.